June 7th @ AIREFCO

The June ORACCA meeting, Thursday, June 7, 2018, will be held at the new Airefco facility in Vancouver. This facility is located at 3812 NE 112th Ave, Vancouver, WA 98682. This session runs from 11:30AM to 1:00PM, with lunch provided by Airefco. Have your dispatcher plan your technician's day starting with training at the new Airefco facility.

Our presenters are Scott Rinde, Len Walker and Paul Weiss. They will present an overview of Airefco's Duct Free products with Scott Rinde leading off and then Len and Paul will provide some Best Practices for Installing and Servicing the Duct Free Line.

Scott was with Airefco in 1996 and left for a few years to work for Johnson Controls on Chillers and controls. Also with Mechanical Sales working on Pumps, Boilers and VRF. He is now back at Airefco and is part of the VRF/Duct Free Team as a Product Specialist and Service Advisor.

Len Winkler: Len has been in the HVAC industry for 30+ years. Owned his own HVAC company and spent many years in the field installing and servicing HVAC equipment. He is currently with Airefco as a Service Manager in the Oregon/SW Washington Region. Len provides technical support and training to Airefco's dealers on the full product offerings by Airefco.

Paul Weiss : Paul has worked for 40 years in the HVAC industry and has been a Field Service Tech, A Factory Technical Rep and has worked for HVAC Distributors as a Technical advisor and Trainer. He has been with Airefco for 21 years as Technical Support and Trainer.

You owe to yourselves to see this new facility, featuring a spacious showroom containing every item needed for service and/or installs.

What is TRAP? A round of trap starts with lining up on the trap field consisting of five stations in front of the trap machine. The machine is set to rotate back and forth therefore throwing many different angles. The closest a shooter can get to the trap machine is 16 yards and this is called "Singles. The typical trap shoot consists of five shooters lined up in a row on stations 1 through 5.

Shooters load one shotgun shell in the shotgun and each person waits for his turn. At his turn, he yells "pull" which releases the clay pigeon to be shot at. Each person takes five shots at five clays, then moves to the next station. At the end of the round, each person has shot a box of 25 shotgun shells.

Clays are thrown at different angles, ranging from almost 90 degrees to fairly straight. Because shotguns fire shells which hold small pellets, the shot gunner breaks the clays by "sweeping" across and past the flying bird so send a pattern of pellets streaming into the clay. A direct hit will cause the clay to "puff" away in a cloud of dust. Even if the clay is only chipped, this counts as a hit.
